Respect

Black and African American families suffer worse health outcomes during pregnancy.

- Marginalized women often experience inequalities in social conditions and medical problems that lead to maternal morbidity and mortality
- Structural racism and implicit bias exist in current health care delivery models, as well as prenatal care services, and may limit a woman's ability to achieve optimum health

- Black women suffer from a disproportionately higher rate of pregnancy morbidity and mortality.
 - Nationwide: up to 3-4 times more likely to die from pregnancy related causes than white women.
 - In California, from 2008 to 2016, black women have exceeded Asian/pacific islander, Hispanic/Latina, and white women in pregnancy related mortality.

Mission 1

Develop an obstetric clinic tailored to the needs of the black community.
Representation Matters!

Mission 2

Offer patient-centered and individualized care

Mission 3

Improve pregnancy outcomes and patient experiences.

Providers working for the betterment of Black Maternal Health!

At the NAEBOR Medical Group, we understand the importance of representation and empathy. Our staff participates in ongoing training in cultural humility and implicit bias. We believe you will benefit from having your prenatal care provider you can relate to - one who looks like you, one who can better understand your life experiences.

Our Team

- Dr. Guillermo Valenzuela. MD
- Dr. Kristy Roloff, DO, MPH
- Danette Brown, PA-C
- Destiney Penn, MA
- Dr. Erica McIntosh, DSW LCSW
- Dr. Jasmaine Coleman, DO
- Dr. Camille Okekpe, DO MS
- Dr. Kendra Flores-Carter, DSW

We've all taken the same rigorous training to be able to better partner or step into care gaps if there is a need.

3 Models of Care

What we offer:

Social workers can help you navigate difficult situations including the complexities of the health care system to help you achieve optimal health and happiness. Our social workers will help you get the most appropriate and timely assistance, in addition to providing you with the community resources that best meets your family's maternal health needs

What We Offer:

Community Health Workers

Community health workers are your neighbors, and will meet with you where you want. They are a key part of your health care team, and will help bridge the gap between medical services and your needs and wishes. Learn more about Community Health Workers from our partners at El Sol.

What we offer: Community Connections

The NAEBOR medical group is dedicated to working with our community partners like the Maternal Health Network, Black Infant Health, and the Perinatal Equity Project. We want you to feel connected to your community and to find your “village of support” for a safe birth and a healthy family.
